Special Good-Bye Issue

Côte-des-Neiges Campus 1975-2007

In 1975 when we first opened our doors at 3880 Côte-des-Neiges, we knew that this new location would be a wonderful home for the College. After 32 years, the time has come to leave this building and move to a campus where Marianopolis held classes from 1926 - 1944. We are, in fact, returning home.

The College has moved many times in its nearly 100-year history, but it remains the same Marianopolis because of the people who make up our Community. Over 20,000 students have called this campus home since 1975. A lot of living and learning and growing up took place here and Marianopolis is proud to have been a part of our students' personal histories. This will be our sixth move and, as with all change, it is an opportunity for new beginnings.

The Côte-des-Neiges building is a magnificent architectural structure, and for over 30 years, Marianopolis has been identified with this building. But it is important to remember that Marianopolis is more than bricks and mortar; it is a community of people undertaking an important academic mission. We have great people here, carrying out the work that makes Marianopolis what it is, the number one College in the Quebec CEGEP system. Like Peel Street before it, Côte-des-Neiges has been a happy place, but we have outgrown our 19th century-designed home; this building that we know and love. We need more space and better facilities if we wish to stay on the cutting edge. You might say that our family needs a bigger home.

Since the initial decision to move was taken by the Board of Directors, the Marianopolis Community has planned and worked very hard to ensure that our newest campus will be every bit as welcoming as the one we now leave behind. Join us on May 18th to say one last Goodbye, to walk the halls and enjoy the company of friends and colleagues on our Côte-des-Neiges campus.

As we close this chapter of Marianopolis history, we look forward to an exciting future as we return "home" to 4873 Westmount Avenue and look forward to welcoming each and every one of you in the fall.

This is a moment
of my life,
I could have passed it
by, like all the rest yet didn't.

This is a moment, I've seen
my life, my time,
This is a moment,
Someday they'll ask and
I'll remember
This Epiphany.

This is a moment, soon to be represented in movies, in books as the past.

This is a moment, for me now.
This is a moment, I feel my convictions, my songs and melodies.

This is a moment,
Remember when...?
And I will.

Memories of Marianopolis

Getting to School

BY JANICE ROSEN '78

I attended Marianopolis from 1976-1978, specializing in Arts, especially Anthropology. When I think of the Côte-des-Neiges campus my fondest memory is of those deep window seats overlooking the lawn and the southern skyline of the city. I had always wanted to live in a house with window seats one could curl up and read in, so seeing them sold me on attending the College long before I knew about its academic reputation.

However, the campus-related incident that has remained with me the most over all these years, and one which I re-visit every time I go along Atwater Avenue, is of the day I embarked on a most misguided mountain-climbing expedition en route to class.

It was at the beginning of my time at the College, and I was running late one morning as I approached the campus from the south, along Chemin St-Sulpice. There must have already been a staircase there in 1976, but, as morning is not my most enlightened time of day, it didn't occur to me to look for one. So I decided the fastest way to get to class would be to scale the steep slope leading up to the lawn.

This might not have been such a bad idea in the abstract, but more or less following the fashions of the times, I was dressed that morning in a calf-length peasant skirt, a poncho, and wooden clogs. I was also overbalanced by a shoulder bag full of books. And perhaps I should add that physical coordination and stamina have never been my greatest assets. So in short order I found myself hanging desperately onto a tree branch half way up the slope, seriously wondering if I was going fall right off this cliff and down to the pavement, never getting to class at all.

My recollection goes blank after that moment, memory leaving me forever hanging onto that tree. But I must have somehow got to the top, since I made it through the rest of my two years there, and graduated, and have even tackled a few steep hills since, albeit in lace-up shoes.

Laurie Betito '83

The 2 years I spent at the college were probably the most significant for me as they set me on a path to higher education and to the career I chose. I remember with great fondness several of my teachers who had a significant impact on me (most notably Dr. Paulos Milkias, Humanities professor and Jean Côté, Psychology professor). These teachers, who were clearly passionate about their subject, did a wonderful job of transmitting this passion. It was in CEGEP that the seed for my future was planted. I fell in love with psychology and went on to pursue post graduate work in the field. Recently I had the opportunity and pleasure of returning to the school during Sexual Health week to give a lecture. I got goose bumps walking into the building, and I was flooded with a wave of very pleasant memories. My time at Marianopolis will always be cherished.

Marianopolis Buddies!

BY MARIAN AND RANDY PINSKY '03

Marianopolis gave us a fantastic opportunity to become involved in a variety of charities and volunteer organizations, and we were thrilled at the responsiveness and enthusiasm of the students. Not only did we get the chance to make super friends who we still keep in contact with, but the social action aspect of Marianopolis especially during our years of 2001-2003 was really something special and something to be proud of!

Along with our friends, including Stella and Kainat, we had a terrific time being involved in the numerous fundraising groups, including Kids Can Free The Children (we were notorious for supplying our classmates with candy from our ever-accompanying fish-bowls!), Dans La Rue (a chapter which we initiated), and food and clothing drives (remember our tow-

Peter Megoudis '82

Peter Megoudis '82 came back for his first visit to the campus since graduating. It took him a while, but soon some long repressed memories got jogged. For example, he talked to Dr. Aniko Lysy, in whose Chemistry class he struggled, and informed her that he had told her, a week before the final exam, that he had a nightmare of failing her class and she reassured him. He also remembers being converted to communism for a week by Ted 'The Red' Skaperdas, before realizing Ted was really a CIA plant sent to identify subversives (or something like that). He also remembers the students being quite older and the teachers being younger. The building, however, looks exactly the same as he left it 25 years ago, right down to the 'Peter was here' carving on the cafeteria table.

In fact, we were even awarded the Sister Elizabeth Mahoney Volunteerism Prize in recognition for our extensive involvement and commitment to the many fundraising and volunteering groups at Marianopolis. This was a funny repeat of history, as this award had been created and given to our sister, Donna, at her graduation in 2000!

Memories

BY SHIRA KOGUT '00

On the last night of the war, Sunday August 13, 2006, my husband and I sat between the main floor and the first floor of our building in Haifa, Israel like we had many times in the last few weeks. It was the only spot without external walls or openings in the building. We sat, waiting for the warning siren and incoming booms of falling Katyusha rockets to stop. The last rocket of the series of about 10 which hit Haifa, was really close and shook the whole 6-story building. When the siren ended and we walked back up the flights of stairs to the top floor to our apartment, we combined work of the Arab Students Society, Hillel and the Armenian Club. People said it could not be done, that we could not overcome the intense political debates that ran between our peoples and make a beautiful could see the hill across from us was on fire and smoke rose thickly over head. We were very lucky and lived out the war of the summer of 2006 physically unharmed. As we watched the news that night and buckled down for what they were predicting would be a long and difficult night before the cease fire went into effect, I began to think back to April 18, 2000, Middle East Day at Marianopolis College.

Marianopolis College had been such a wonderful experience for me. Coming from the Jewish school system, it was my first breath into the beautiful multicultural world around me. One day sitting at the Rose Window with students of Indian, Pakistani and Sri Lankan descent (not understanding yet how unusual that may have been for them at first as well until taking my first PoliSci class), then sitting with Greek students in the caf and then finishing off the day saying goodbye to my Italian and Latin American friends in my Liberal Arts class. Here we were a microcosm of the world under one roof. Together, celebrating on the lawn each others' beautiful cultures; a lamb for Greek-Orthodox Easter and a Sukka for the Jewish holiday of Sukkot. I could not get enough of it and loved just taking it all in, learning from each other, about each other and sharing the best of what our rich backgrounds had to offer.

Middle-Eastern Day at Marianopolis was brought to campus by the day that celebrated our cultures and everything beautiful that the Middle East has to offer but our 3 clubs made it happen, complete with camel and all. As The Gazette described it: "This was a remarkably harmonious affair." The day was the first celebration of Middle East culture at the college and the declaration (signed by my friends, Vicken Kanadjian '00 of the Armenian Club, Andrea Heckler '00 of Hillel and Ghassan Zakhour '00 of the Arab Students Society) was to "put religious and ethnic differences aside" in favour of social interaction between students who "share common interests and purposes." The peacefulness of that day was something special that stayed with me forever and feeds my hope that when people can talk and know each other on a social level and respect and celebrate each others' similarities and differences, then other political issues can slowly be ironed out to everyone's benefit. It is a hope that I continue to cling to now and something that I dreamed of during the month of war here.

The Crystal Ball

BY VICTORIA KORSOS

Deeply alarmed by the many devastating student-related tragedies present this year in the news, a small group of Marianopolis Students started working on a project last October with the intention of making a statement of anti-violence. These students, led by Victoria Korsos, Patricia Kaminska and Matthew Malacha, held many fundraising activities in support of their message and CARE Canada. The highlight of their efforts was The Crystal Ball, a charity gala held March 31st, 2007 at the Sofitel Hotel, Montreal. The students have chosen for their donation to go to LEAD, CARE Canada's Program Agreement Project in Cambodia, whose main objective is to empower young men and women particularly in the fight against AIDS and illiteracy. Their donation will be matched three times by the Canadian International Development Agency. The students raised over $29,000 through fundraising events such as a St-Viateur Bagel sale, a Krispy Kreme fundraiser, a Pizza Hut Night, a Comedy Nest Evening, The Screaming for Justice Benefit Concert and the Crystal Ball.

Marianopolis winners at the 2007 Montreal Regional Science & Technology Fair

BY HEATHER MACDOUGALL

The 25th silver anniversary of the Bell Montreal Regional Science & Technology Fair was held April 1-3, 2007. Hosted by Pierrefonds Comprehensive High School and Lester B. Pearson School Board, the fair brought together participants from 42 high schools and CEGEPs. Two Marianopolis projects were featured among the winning entries.

Congratulations to Kartik Madiraju for his gold medal in the senior 1 category! His project, "Cyanobacterial Fuel Cells," has earned him a spot at the INTEL International Science and Engineering Fair in Albuquerque, New Mexico in May. He also received the McGill University -Department of Bio-resource Engineering Award and the Coop fédérée Prize.

Congratulations as well to Robert Aboukhalil and Daisy Daivasagaya who received a gold medal in the senior 2 category for their project, "Quantum Dots & Cancer Labelling," which they will bring to the provincial science fair at the University of Sherbrooke later in April. They were also awarded the McGill University Biology Award and the Genome Quebec Bursary.

The students were sponsored by the Marianopolis Plan for Success and benefited from the guidance of Project Coordinator Rocco Iafigliola. Best of luck in the upcoming competitions!

Marianopolis Community Recreation

The new dance studio is bathed in sunlight and really makes you feel like dancing!

Marianopolis Community Recreation is moving too! At the new campus, we will offer a full range of courses in the beautiful new dance studio, such as Pilates mat and ball classes, yoga classes (Hatha, as well as prenatal and postnatal yoga), circuit training, karate, tai chi, aerobics, Nia and more. We'll also be offering kids programs, such as dance and movement classes, yoga for kids, hip hop and breakdancing. Please visit our website frequently for updates! As always, alumni are eligible for a discount.

The gym will be open for rentals in the evening and weekends, too. Time slots are booking up fast, so please contact me if interested. If you have any questions, I can be reached by email: mcr@marianopolis.edu. Feel free to visit our website at www.marianopolis.edu/cr/MCR.

Math Competition Victory

Congratulations to the Marianopolis College Mathematics Team, which once again secured first place in Quebec at the American Mathematics Competition (AMC 12) this spring! Xiao Jiang, Hongyu Xiao, and Qiao Wang outscored participants from CEGEPS and schools across the province, continuing Marianopolis' unbroken first place standing in this province-wide competition since 2002.

All three have been invited to continue on to the AIME (American Invitational Mathematics Examination, the next step to the USAMO (USA Math Olympiad).

Great things start at Marianopolis

Marianopolis College has a long tradition of organizing and hosting science fairs for students that dates back to the early 1980s. Initially, the fair that has now grown to include schools in the entire Montreal region, started with Marianopolis students at the Côte-des-Neiges campus. In the late 1980s, Marianopolis joined the Quebec delegation representing both English and French high schools and CEGEPS. The top level projects that were exhibited at these fairs soon became the envy of many other schools and we were asked to help lead others into experimental- and innovation-type projects.

By the mid 1990s, Montreal and West Island high school boards and CEGEPS shared in the hosting of the Bell Montreal Regional Science and Technology Fair (BMRSTF). By then our students had made a name for themselves by having represented the College at various competitions:

- at the provincial level in the Super Exposciences Bell
- at the national level in the Canada Wide Science Fair
- at the international level (the "olympiad" of science fairs) in the Intel International Science and Engineering Fair

Donations to the "Moving hearts and minds" capital campaign will help fund the move to the new campus on Westmount Avenue. From the $10 million total goal, $8 million will support renovations in the new facilities, the ongoing development of technology at the College, and the construction of a new gymnasium. The remaining $2 million will be used to establish a permanent endowment fund with the Marianopolis Millennium Foundation, primarily to support scholarships, bursaries, and student financial aid.

Marianopolis College thanks each and every donor for their generous support, and also extends its warm appreciation to all our volunteers for their leadership and dedication. For more information about how you can support the campaign, please contact Barth Gillan, Campaign Director, at (514) 937-7923 or campaign@marianopolis.edu.

Thank you for your support!

Thank you to our faculty & staff who have pledged over $143,000!

Madeline-Ann Aksich '75 Tribute Event

On December 4, 2006, friends and family of Madeline-Ann Aksich '75 gathered at the McGill Faculty Club to pay tribute the memory of this extraordinary and inspiring woman. Members of the Marianopolis family were also there to commemorate Madeline's life and achievements, and to share our goal of naming the Art Studio at our new campus in her memory.

Art played an important role in Madeline's life, especially in her later years while she was battling cancer. Her use of art therapy in the context of the International Children's Institute helped many children touched by the traumas of war cope with tragic events. Madeline was also a very loyal supporter to other organizations, one being her alma mater, Marianopolis College. It is for this reason that we have worked with her family to dedicate our new Art Studio to her, so that her love of art can continue to educate and inspire students for generations to come.

Our goal is to raise $50,000 to create a lasting legacy for Madeline, and provide students with the quality facilities they need to develop their talents. Thanks to the generosity of family and friends, we have already succeeded in raising over $29,000.

To make a contribution in memory of Madeline, please contact Barth Gillan, Campaign Director at (514) 937-7923 or by email: campaign@marianopolis.edu

A Special Thank You!

When you think back to your time at Marianopolis, there were certainly some teachers who really made a difference in your life. Many are still here and will be moving with us to the new campus. It takes just a minute to send a quick email, make a phone call, or send a card. Your thank you means a great deal to the teachers who really take the time to listen to your dreams and help you make them happen. If you would like to send a special message, please contact Anneliese Papaurelis in Alumni Affairs at 514-931-8792 ext. 202.

Le Tournoi Jeunes Démocrates

BY KAREEN LATOUR

For a second year, Marianopolis College sent two teams to Le Tournoi Jeunes Démocrates in Quebec City from April 20 to April 22 led by Kareen Latour. This year, the teams achieved outstanding results as they won their division's semi-finals. They were then eliminated on Sunday by two of the strongest teams of Le Tournoi: Cegep François-Xavier Garneau and Cegep de Ste-Foy. Our teams were formed of students from several departments who all share an interest in history and politics. Hongyu Xiao, Se-In Choe, Sabera Hedaraly and Marion Gale formed our first team and Nicolas Congram, Dominique Groleau-Roy, Jessica Hallé, Ioanna Solomatina and Lilyana Zhelyazkova (alternate) formed our second team. The help of alumni Tamreen Arif '06 was also essential to the success of this great activity. We are very thankful of the financial help of the Social Science Department, Plan for Success, Student Congress and several Members of Parliament (Tony Tomassi, Raymond Bachand, Jacques Chagnon, François Ouimet and Line Beauchamp). Without those contributions, this project would have been impossible. As we were leaving Quebec City, plans were made for next year competition... We are looking forward to another year of preparation.

Eva Brandl received a Canada Council research and creation grant for the year 2007-2008.

She will pursue her artistic research articulated around the notion of "climatic space", a concept used in architectural language that hints at the disengagement of perception from the realm of the exclusively visual.

Projected venues are her participation in Site Works under the auspices of Memorial University in Newfoundland and a solo exhibition at The Yukon Art Center in Whitehorse in the spring of 2008.

Dr. Paulos Milkias, has just published a book entitled Haile Selassie, Western Education and Political Revolution in Ethiopia, [Cambria Press, 2006]. Dr. Richard Pankhurst, O.B.E., Research Fellow, SOAS University of London, and London School of Economics and Political Science, who refers to the author as "an Ethiopian scholar of repute, [and] the compiler of the most comprehensive Bibliography of writings on Ethiopia ever produced" gives his strong endorsement. For Dr. Said S. Samatar, Professor of African history at Rutgers University, the work is "ground-breaking ...the finest book on Ethiopia in a decade..." For Prof. Dr. T. Medhanie, Faculty of Law and Department of Political Science, University of Bremen, Germany, the book is "One of the best works on the subject... very rich... [and] remarkably comprehensive social-scientific study."

- 2006 The “Moving hearts and minds” capital campaign is publicly launched with a goal of $10M to fund the new campus. Sister Patricia Simpson publishes volume 2 of her biography of Saint Marguerite Bourgeoys.
- 2007 Marianopolis College will move into 4873 Westmount Avenue, with renovated facilities and a newly constructed sports complex to open for the 2007-2008 academic year.

I have precious memories of the most inspired and inspiring English teachers of all time: Rick Adams and Tom McKendy.

Dear Rick and Tom,
Thank you for being pivotal influences in my life. I will never forget your open-door policy on office hours and the generosity of spirit and mentoring I found there.

Rick: “Saint Emmanuel the Good, Martyr,” which you taught with such passion, is still my all-time favourite story. I also hold dear the copy of The Aristos you gave me to me at one of the lowest points in my life, when I had just lost my sister. Thanks for offering me the comfort of wisdom when I needed it most.

Tom: Poetry came alive in your Twentieth Century Poetry and Poetics class.

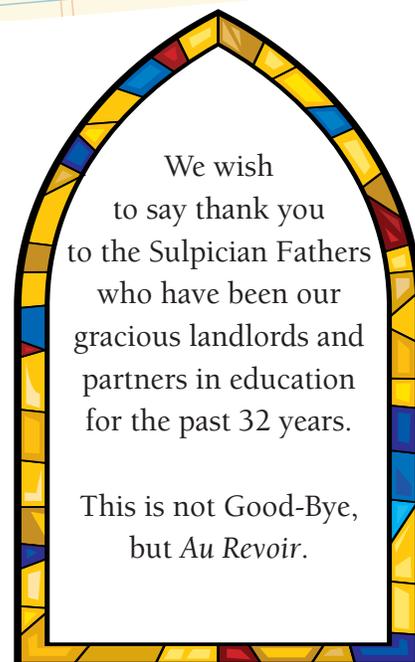

It made me want to be a poet.

You were both right and wrong when you told me not to pursue studies in English because there was no work in it. I went to law school and have spent the past 22 years as a lawyer, and I still want to write!

Thank you both for bringing Sartre, Unamuno, Yeats, Frost, Ferlinghetti, Stevens and Ginsberg into my life. I still turn to them for wisdom, and when I need a good howl.

In gratitude,

Myra Shuster '79

Alumni News & Notables

00's

Sean Yaphe '08 Organized a bike drive on campus to collect used bicycles to send to Ghana in conjunction with Cycle Nord Sud, an organization that collects, repairs and delivers the bicycles. Julie Meng Han and Ting Ting Cui also helped organize this effort.

Judit Illes '07 Recently published an article in the Journal of Social, Political and Economic Studies: Volume 1, 2007, Institute of Strategic Studies of the Causasus (ISSC) and CA & CC Press. She discusses American energy policy towards Azerbaijan and it recommends a preventive policy for Washington by which it will secure its future energy interests in the region.

Joel Kornek '06 is recovering from gunshot wounds sustained this September 13 at the Dawson College shooting, and has started a website www.killthinking.com devoted to reaching out to youth in crisis who may be edging towards violence.

H.K. Phoebe Chan '04 Has been awarded an ATHGO Ambassador Scholarship Award to attend the international symposium: The Architects of the Future: Reforming the UN to Meet the Millennium Development Goals, at the United Nations in New York this spring. She writes: "I just owe this success to my Model UN experience, the profs I had and still keep in touch with, and the Liberal Arts program at Marianopolis. The ability to have an open mind and critical thinking really helped for the conference's final essay."

Michael Tomasetta '04 was recently named MVP at the Canadian Intercollegiate Baseball Association championship tournament in Nepean. He was also honored as the McGill and Quebec University Male Athlete of the week.

Kevin Vora '00 Is busy working on his Ph.D. in applied Physics at Harvard his focus is in nanophotonics and plasmonics.

Li Li '99 is an actress and filmmaker living in Montreal. She has appeared in several feature films, a television comedy for YTV, and her project, a feature documentary about the three Gorges Dam on the Yangze, tentatively entitled "Up The Yangze." She is the Associate Producer and the documentary is set to air this fall on CBC. She is currently working on a GalaFilm Project: "Sexual Revolution in China" and is editing and translating it for television.

Rebecca Lackman '96 has obtained her Ph.D. in Cell Biology from Yale University. She will be continuing her academic career in Research and Development for the DND Canada.

Karl Raudsepp-Hearne '95 is a filmmaker and has been invited to screen his short film "Men on a Lake" at the Slamdance Film Festival in Los Angeles, an up and coming film festival much like the Sundance.

Claude Nadeau '94 Is harpsichord soloist at the Opéra de Paris, and has been enjoying a stimulating and varied career. Read more about her adventures at www.claudenadeau.net.

Donna Shestowsky '92 Is the recipient of the UC Davis School of Law 2007 Distinguished Teaching Award (DTA). She is an acting professor of law and legal scholar with interests in alternative dispute resolution, juries, and legal psychology. She joined the law faculty in 2004 and, since then, has provided exceptional service to the Law School as a dedicated, accessible teacher, always working to improve her teaching methods. She teaches criminal law, negotiation strategy, alternative dispute resolution, and a seminar in legal psychology. She also coaches King Hall's interschool negotiations team.

Christopher Hamacher '91 went on to get a law degree from the University of Montreal. Since then, however, he's devoted himself mainly to un lucrative and outlandish pastimes like practicing Zen Buddhism. He dated two different Marianopolis graduates (names and addresses withheld) before marrying a girl from Toronto who didn't go to CEGEP. He now lives in Munich Germany and works, consistent with his penchant for egregiously underachieving, as a part-time replacement legal secretary and freelance translator. This gives him the precious free time needed to write capricious blurbs for alumni newsletters.

Cynthia Kazandjian '91 and Michael Besner announce the birth of their beautiful baby daughter Hanna Bella on December 18, 2006. Sister to Oliver and Luke, granddaughter to Dr. Zareh Kazandjian, Barbara and Kermit Kitman, and Gerald Besner.

Virginie Champoux '90 and Jay Sokoloff '90 are thrilled to welcome Nora-Jin to their family. Congratulations to Virginie, Jay and big sister Sarah-Qin!

Irving Gold '89 has been appointed Vice President, External Affairs at the Association of Faculties of Medicine of Canada (AFMC). He will provide leadership to increased communication and government relations activities. Since 1999, he has been working in the area of knowledge transfer and exchange, beginning at the Centre for Health Economics and Policy Analysis at McMaster University. In 2000, Irving created the Canadian Research Transfer Network and chaired its board of directors until 2004. In 2002, he joined the Canadian Health Services Research Foundation and became responsible for the knowledge network and knowledge brokering activities of the foundation. In 2004, he was appointed to the position of director. Irving's research experience spans several academic disciplines, and he is currently completing his PhD dissertation, a sociological analysis of the role of evidence in scientific controversies. Irving holds master's degrees in both criminology and sociology.

Jonathan Goodman '86 and his Montreal-based pharmaceutical company Paladin, have won two Genesis awards: The Biotechnology/Biopharmaceutical Entrepreneurship Award for outstanding growth and Jonathan, as President & CEO, won the BRIO Award for significant contribution to the development of the life sciences industry.

Conrad Pla '85 is enjoying success on the popular television series "Regenesis" (Global) and is busy working on "Burning Mussolini", a film he wrote, directed and co-stars in.

Oren Safdie '85 has a new play "The Last Word..." which opened in New York City this past January. Oren has written several plays and screenplays. He has a new play opening in New York on December 4, 2007. It's called "West Bank, UK," and it's a musical comedy about a Palestinian and Israeli roommate who are forced to share a rundown rent-controlled apartment in the West Bank of London. It will play at La MaMa E.T.C., 74a East 4th Street, NY, NY 10003. He also writes a regular humor column for a NY magazine called METROPOLIS which is sold in Montreal.

Nicole Duval Hesler '64 The Honourable Madame Justice Nicole Duval Hesler, a Puisne Judge of the Superior Court of Quebec, District of Montreal was appointed a Puisne Judge of the Court of Appeal of Quebec in Montreal this past November. Madame Justice Nicole Duval Hesler received a licence en droit (with distinction) in 1967 from the Université de Montréal and Bachelor of Arts (magna cum laude) in 1964 from Marianopolis College and was admitted to the Bar of Quebec in 1968. She practised with the firm Buchanan McAllister and its successor firms, McAllister Blakely Hesler Lapierre, and Blakely Gascon in Montreal (1968-1992). Madame Justice Duval Hesler was appointed a judge of the Superior Court of Quebec in 1992. Since becoming a judge, she has held various execu-utive positions, including President in 2003-2004 and Past President 2005-2007 with the Canadian Institute for the Administration of Justice. She was also a Past Member of the Board of Trustees of the Canadian Bar Association's Law for the Future Fund.

Sheila Kindellan-Sheehan '64 Her latest thriller, a multi-faceted whodunit, in The Caitlin Donovan series was launched Sept. 23 at Chapters, Pointe Claire. This thriller dealt with how far a student on campus would go to made the grades he needed. There is an eerie parallel to the events at Dawson. Memories of the Fabrikant murders surface as well. Montreal is once again the backdrop.

Marianopolis will miss

Ryan Francis - Class of 2005

January 28th Ryan was participating in a local indoor touch rugby league when he sat down to rest and began to struggle with his breathing. Despite the best efforts of trained personnel at the event, ambulance technicians and the medical staff at Sacré-Coeur Hospital he could not be revived. He died of heart failure due to a congenital heart defect.

Ryan, 20, grew up in Côte St. Luc and went on to study at Royal West Academy, Marianopolis College and then Concordia, where he was studying Political Science.

He played rugby for several years and made many friends in TMR, the Montreal Barbarians, the Blue Demons, the Montreal Caribou and the Stingers. Ryan was admired by his teammates for his dedication to hard work both on and off the field. He was constantly striving for excellence in everything he did. This, coupled with his never failing joie de vivre serves as a shining example of what it takes to get the most you can out of every day of your life.

Anne McDonald Clément - Class of 1953, Magna Cum Laude

Anne passed away suddenly, at home, on January 14, 2007, at the age of 75. Beloved wife of Paul W. Clément. Loving mother of Michael (Monica Gubert '84), Donald (Susan Fisher-Clément) and Louise, class of '85 (Pierre St-Laurent). Cherished grandma of Christopher, Timothy, Charlotte and Marc. Anne met Paul while studying at the University of Montréal in 1953 and they were married on October 1st, 1955. Anne was passionate about helping others and was a social worker for the Catholic Welfare Bureau until the birth of her first child in 1959. A devoted mother, Anne returned to work part-time at Marianopolis in 1979, first in the Retirement Centre with Sylvia McDonald CND and upon the retirement of Sister McDonald, Anne shared reception duties with Barbara Tumas. Marianopolis College was very important to Anne, and she was pleased to be able to participate within the Marianopolis Community in this manner. Anne retired in the spring of 1999 and she and Paul moved to Ottawa in September of that year. She very much enjoyed living in Ottawa and was active in the Paroisse St-Rémi and partook in several community activities; she especially loved being a member of the choir "The Nepean Songsters." Anne had a passion for acting and music and could always be seen smiling and humming a tune. She is deeply missed and loved by her family and friends.

From L to R: Anita Nevins '54, Lois Gallagher Sauvé '54, Anne McDonald Clément '53, Catherine Brown '54 (standing), Betty Smith (Collège Mother House).

JUNO Award Winner

There was no fooling around this April 1st for Antoine Gratton '89. He went home with the JUNO Award for Best Francophone Album of the Year - Il était une fois dans l'Est. Released last winter, his follow up album to Montréal Motel (2003) was warmly received by the critics. Contenders for the JUNO award included Pierre Lapointe, Ariane Moffat, Malajube and Vulgaires Machins. Antoine will be spending the summer touring around Quebec and has many Montreal dates. You can catch up on his tour schedule at www.antoinegratton.com and send along a congratulatory note! Or better yet, come to the Côte-des-Neiges Goodbye Party on May 18th and see him in person with The Potholes!

Come Underground with Marianopolis College 11th Annual Talent Show

Come out for an exciting evening featuring Marianopolis talent on April 28th at 7:30 P.M. at Oscar Peterson Hall. Tickets are $10 at Student Services and $13 at the door on the night of the performance. Proceeds benefit The Generations Foundation, providing meals at school for hungry children in Montreal.
